

It is extremely important not to default on any loan, and defaulting on a federal student loan will impact your credit score. However, if you feel you may have to default, or if you are already in default, you should contact your lender.

Get more information on loan defaults